PAS Nairobi Supports Girls' STEM Education at Access Students' Science Fair

On March 25, PAS Nairobi sponsored a science fair for girls as part of the Embassy's Access English language program. Over 120 girls from schools in the predominately Muslim coastal region of Kenya watched as their classmates presented projects to a panel of science teachers. The students were judged on their research and presentation and their skill in explaining complex science concepts in English. The CAO awarded a trophy to the winning project, how to make soap from raw ingredients, and discussed the USG commitment to STEM education.
